

POMS 22nd Annual Conference

POMS Fellows Panel

PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE OF POM RE- SEARCH, PRACTICE AND TEACHING

FRIDAY 29 APRIL, 4:10-5:20 PM, TUSCAN A-C

Theme

Ideas, knowledge and experiences that each of us (as Fellows) can contribute to the success of POMS.

This panel discussion is the first in a series in which POMS Fellows discuss with participants the status and future of the field (research topics, publication strategy, career planning, disbursement of knowledge, and the like). The basic idea is simple: POMS Fellows have been recognized as successful and influential scholars and it is only natural that they would try to share their experience with other members of the Society. The purpose of the POMS Fellows sessions is to have an open discussion on important topics related to the Society and our field. This very first panel session is meant to share views on the evolution of our discipline (past, present, future) and to identify burning topics for future sessions.

Introductory Remarks by our POMS President: Luk Van Wassenhove

Panel Moderator, Martin K. Starr

POMS Fellow Designation

Designation as a POMS Fellow is the most prestigious honor awarded by the Production and Operations Management Society, and is given for life. It is intended to recognize POMS members who have made exceptional intellectual contributions to our profession and Society through their research and teaching. Although loyal service to the Society, in administrative, elected, or editorial assignments, is not by itself a sufficient qualification for this award, it can strengthen the case of a member who has also become a thought-leader in our field. To be eligible a candidate must have demonstrated commitment to furthering the objectives of POMS (as evidenced by such indicators as membership in the Society and active participation in POMS Colleges and meetings.)
