Theme: RELEVANCE

Expanding POM research, teaching, and practice to help organizations, society, economies, and the environment

About the Conference

Production and Operations Management Society (POMS) is an international professional organization representing the interests of POM professionals from around the world. The purposes of the Society are:

- to extend and integrate knowledge that contributes to the improved understanding and practice of production and operations management (POM);
- to disseminate information on POM to managers, scientists, educators, students, public and private organizations, national and local governments, and the general public; and
- to promote the improvement of POM and its teaching in public and private manufacturing and service organizations throughout the world

The society's web page may be found at: <http://www.poms.org/>

This conference brings together faculty and graduate students in POM along with industry personnel to share academic research through paper presentations, tutorials and panel discussions. Invited industry leaders will also share their insights on the relevance and application of POM research to practice through plenary sessions.

About our Venue in Washington DC

Our conference hotel is the Washington Hilton, located near many historic sites, museums and other points of interest in Washington DC, U.S.A. The hotel is ideally situated with sweeping skyline views of the city and with easy access to landmarks such as the White House, Capitol, National Mall, Smithsonian Institution, National Zoo, and many other sites of interest.

Who May Participate

Researchers working in the area of operations management (OM) from academia, government, industry and research establishments as well as students are invited to submit papers, proposals for symposia, tutorials, and/or workshops on current topics in OM
