

POMS Doctoral Consortium 2015

POMS 26th Annual Conference, Washington DC, U.S.A.

Friday, May 8th – 12:30 to 6.30 PM, Room: Monroe

The purpose of the POMS Doctoral Consortium is to help doctoral students maximize their chances of having a successful academic career in our globally competitive environment. A mix of junior and experienced faculty will provide their perspectives on finding the right position and becoming an excellent researcher and teacher. This year, we have a dynamite panel. All speakers will have an interesting story to tell. With their combined experience, the panel will be able to answer all your questions about “the dissertation phase, being on the job-market, and life after obtaining a PhD’ (Yes, there is one!).

Applications from Ph.D. students are now invited. In order to be prepared to participate to the Doctoral Consortium, you must submit (1) a one-page resume, and (2) a one-page non-technical summary of your thesis research. Please use 12 points font and 1 inch margins for both the documents. For the research summary, write your thesis title, name, e-mail and affiliation on top of the page. You cannot have more than 33 lines (see below for the template) – please stick to the format described. Please do not write any confidential information in the summary. Writing a non-technical summary will be helpful for you to talk to potential employers, your peers and the panelists about your research.

You should e-mail your summary and resume as a two-page pdf file to: Rachna Shah, at shahx024@umn.edu, by April 6th, 2015.

The name of the pdf file should be: FirstName_LastName.pdf. For example, Rachna Shah would submit the file Rachna_Shah.pdf.

Acceptance letters will be sent out by April 20th, 2015. There is no additional cost for attending the Consortium to the students but all participants must be registered for the POMS conference.

If you have questions, please contact the Chair of the 2015 Doctoral Consortium:
